Our Vision

WoundHeal Australia is a company that contributes to the well-being of people with wounds, providing a range of specific wound management services to older people and the Aged Care Sector at large. The company seeks to provide the highest quality education, IT products and wound management services to clients in a timely and efficient manner. WoundHeal Australia comprises a small number of highly focussed, motivated individuals who are passionate about improving the care of older people with wounds. These people maintain their skills, connection to and interaction with the wider health care community through practice, publication, conference attendance and participation, research activity, consultancy and further education. WoundHeal Australia is widely recognised by wound management professionals, peak professional bodies, the health care community, government agencies and health care providers.

Mission

WoundHeal Australia will design, develop, market and deliver specific wound management education, IT products and related care services to meet the identified needs of the older person and the Aged Care Sector.

Objectives

- To improve wound management processes in the care of older people with wounds and within Aged Care Sector service organisations
- To improve care outcomes for older people with wounds and within Aged Care Sector service organisations
- To effect changes in wound management practices at the organizational level of governance
- To increase the uptake of focussed IT products related to wound management practice and outcomes

Values

WoundHeal Australia operates in a compassionate and ethical way. The company recognises and upholds the rights of individuals and recognises the centrality of the customer or consumer in its business processes. WoundHeal Australia provides quality, cost efficient products and services within designated time-frames. The company values research evidence, best-practice approaches in its activity domains and achievement of mutually agreed goals and outcomes.
